Club Championship at Baltusrol, Bogey Play at Dyker Meadow Cup Competitions at St. Andrews, Crescent A. C., Ardsley, Marine and Field and Many Other Courses. After a year or more of preliminary work the Apawamis Club had a formal opening of its completed links yesterday. The clubhouse, finished last summer, was gay with on-lookers from Rye and the adjacent villages and the links well filled with players. The course, as lengthened under Willie Davis's direction, is now the longest in the East, and, with the exception of St. Andrews, longer than any of the the championship links of Great Britain. The The May cup was won out by Paul Harrison. Mrs. S. M. Harrison won the putting match from a field that included Mrs. Bradler, Miss Laurie, Miss Maxwell, Miss Saunders and Miss Childs. distances follow. Totals. "I was playing as dicerone to a new member and at the pond hole I asked three of the women members if we might play through. Well, my friend drove into the pond, and, as the bail splashed in close to the bank, he said he could fish it out. He found it was just out of reach, so I took his hand and he leaned a way out over the water. Heavier than I am, at a certain point he toppled in, and, as he clung to my hand, in I went too, so quickly that my feet pointed to the sky as my head struck the water. When I came up my head was circled with lilies and ferns, like Lurline, the fountain nymph. The three women just rolled on the turf in shouts of laughter as we scrambied out. I finished the round, but ever since I have regretted that while my head was in the mud I didn't think to grope around for some of the bails the pond must be paved with!" In a letter to C. S. Cox, Harry Vardon, the golf champion, writes as follows on his return to England:

England:

"At Queenstown we had some fun. The ship was boarded by a swarm of newspaper men who all wanted to interview me. I put another chap on to them, a golfer from Augusta. It was great fun, as he told them all kinds of tales, and I stood behind and listened with much enjoyment. I can't play now any more than sour apples, but I am just beginning to get a little better. If Willie Dunn saw me now he would certainly say I play all wrong."

This is the first account of Varden over boards.

Before a gallery of some 4,000 or 5,000 persons. about half of whom were women whose gay hats and parasols gave color to an extremely picturesque scene, the Crescent Athletic Club's Lacrosse team defeated their old rivals, the pretty Crescent Field at Bay Ridge yesterday afternoon. It was the second of the series of four international matches scheduled by the home team and its sixth match and third suctheir opponents on edge and, though the score looks like a walkover they gave a beautiful exhibition of stick work and individual skill and pluck. They were much lighter as well as younger than their opponents and in team work were so much outclassed that it often appeared as though the Crescents had two men on the field against one Canadian.

One of the university's best men of last year, Dr. Wales, was playing on the Crescent side and butfour of their last year's men, Greig, Graham, Hanley and Forbes, appeared on their line. The Hanier and Forbes, appeared on their line. The heavy scoring of the Crescents was largely due to the marvelleus goal shooting of Bob Wall, who as in ice hockey rarely fails to get his speed and direction, however narrow the angle Wall scored no less than 7 goals for the Crescents. The first half ended with the score 6 to 1 in favor of the home team and in the second Toronto scored 2 against 6. Curry shot 3 goals for the Crescents; Jewell 1 and Dobby 1. The Canadian's goals were made by Stanley, Curran and McDonaid. Goals on triple or quadruple passes down the field were a brilliant feature of the Crescent's play. Next Saturday the team plays the Markhams. Champions of Western Canada. The Staten Island Lacrosse Club tried conclusions with the Six Nations Indians at Columbia Field vesterday afternoon. The game was an interesting one and both teams played hard. The team work of the visitors, however, excelled and they won by the score of 14 to 3.

A team chess match on twelve boards was played between the Brooklyn and Chicago Chess clubs yesterday, the moves being Chess clubs yesterday, the moves being transmitted from Brooklyn to Chicago and vice versa by telegraph. Play was begun at 10 o'clock in the morning and was continued until midnight, with one hour recess for luncheon and one hour for dinner. At 11.30 o'clock last night ten grames were decided, of which Brooklyn had won four, drawn four and lost two. The two games pending were in favor of Chicago, but Brooklyn then could do no wors than draw the match. Just before close of play, however, Ruth had secured a draw, and the match was therefore won by Brooklyn, with one game unfinished.

VAN VELSOR OF OYSTER BAY WINS THE IRVINGTON-MILLBURN. Mexander of Hartford Again Takes the Time Prize-Stevens Defeats Eaton in a Heat Race at Vallsburg-Collett Wins Nearly All the Prizes at Berkeley Oval-Other Events. A freckled-faced boy, with a shock of red hair, laughing blue eyes and a square, heavy chin, won the most classic cycling event of the country yesterday, the Irvington-Millburn twentyfive-mile road race. Also he was third in line for the time prizes. He is a country boy named Edgar Van Velsor. He lives at Oyster Bay, L. I., stands 5 feet, 4 inches in his shoes, weighs 145 pounds, and, although only 20 years of age, has a pair of hands as broad and hard and horny as any typical man of the hoe. He was a "dark horse" in the race, which in recent years has been usually won by "dark horses," who subsequently have become prominent in cycle racing, as the case of Arthur Ross, last year's winner, testifies. Those who saw the ride of Van Velsor vesterday will watch him eagerly and consider that he deserves all the good fortune and distinction that come to wheel, geared to 84.

For many years, since 1889, when the first one was run the Irvington-Mulburn has been recognized as the "Cycling Derby," and the winner of it leaped into fame. No youngster ever won it by a greater display of pluck and gameness than Van Velsor showed yesterday. He trained over the hills about Roslyn and Oyster Bay and worked in stormy weather on a home trainer. He went into the race to win. He never had been in a road race before and only a couple of times had competed in amateur events at the Mineola fair grounds, but without being placed. He never had been over the famous five-mile course between Irvington and Millbetween Irvington and Hilton and the "big hill" between Hilton and Millburn, and yesterday he had to inquire his way to it. In consequence of his inexperience the handicapper gave him a start of six minutes over the cracks on scratch.

He set out and before getting to the first turn, two and a half miles away, was in the lead. After that he never was honestly headed. He made his own pace and kept in front. At the end he finished I minute and 35 seconds ahead of the second man. The second man was J. Frank Galvin, who was disqualified for falling to make the first turn at Millburn. Van Velsor led at five miles, but Galvin, because of cutting the course, led at ten and at fifteen miles with Van Velsor second. Even his failure to go the distance did not save Galvin from the furious speed. of the Long Island boy, and at twenty miles Van Veiser was again leading and thereafter never was headed. He won by nearly half a mile. He got a piano for his trouble.

The ride of R. M. Alexander of Hartford, who won the first prize for covering the course in the shortest time, thereby duplicating his performance of 1898, was also a most of five scratch men and forged steadily ahead, gaining on the leaders with every lap. Hansen, who won the time prize last year, had a bad fall in the first five miles that set him back. The winner of the second time prize was W. N.

It is doubtful if any mothers could have two negroes and the others looked all alike. recognized their sons as they passed, except in the same way the judges distinguished the riders, by the numbers on their backs. Considering the adverse conditions of the road, to which was added a brisk wind that checked the contestants when they headed toward Millburn, the time made the contestants when they headed toward Millburn, the time made the contestants when they headed toward Millburn, the time made the contestants when they headed toward Millburn, the time made the contestants when they headed toward Millburn, the time made the contestants when they headed toward Millburn, the time made the contestants when they headed toward Millburn, the time made the contestants when they headed toward Millburn, the time made the contestants when they headed toward Millburn, the time made the contestants when they headed toward Millburn, the time made they have the contestant when the they headed toward Millburn, the time made was remarkably fast. The record for the course is 1 hour 8 minutes and 20 seconds, made by Monte Scott in 1806.

The start was made on the same wooded knoll half way between Irvington and Millburn that has been the checking point since 1889 and the scenes along the course were cariously similar in their picturesque variety to the scenes of other years. A mistake was made this year of running the race in the afternoon in opposition to the horse races, ball sames and all other attractions, instead of in the forenoon, as hitherto, and there were not more than ten or twelve thousand spectators lined along hitherto, and there were not more than ten or twelve thousand spectators lined along the road, yet the old familiar faces were there. There were the veterans of cycling and the latter-day enthusiasts were there, from "Happy Days" Pitman, the referee, to Charlie Mock of continuous-century repute: also the country girls and farm lads with their "shining morning faces," and the "dead game sports" from the city who were looking for bets. The wealthy residents of the Oranges, Montelair and other New Jersey towns, in their fashionable equipages, were sandwiched along the roadside with the farmers carryalis, containing from eight to fourteen persons. Then there were the girls and boys from the town, Newark, mixed in with those from taining from eight to fourteen persons. Then there were the girls and boys from the town, Newark, mixed in with those from New York, most of them in bicycle rig, sitting on the top stick of a post and rail fence with their wheels lying in hears in front of them and the trees behind them filled with the ever-present urchins who make the noise of the occasion.

Here and there was a baby carriage and now and then an automobile intruded upon the scene, so cosmopolitan and so rustic. The birch-beer men and the potchese women struggled for trade with the programme venders and all were covered with dust. Now and then a fence rail broke. Once a boy fell twenty feet to the sward and landed unburt. One child of 5 years got in the way of a racer and both went up in the air. The incidents followed fast upon each other and were of every variety. It was the same old Irvington-Milburn that it seems impossible for time or custom to kill or stale. A summary, showing the twenty-two prize winners of those who finished, follows. In all about eighty finished:

ROCHESTER, May 30. The races of the Rochester Automobile Club passed off without a mishap this afternoon. There was a good attendance and much interest centred in the meeting. The first event was a one-mile locomobile race, and was won by the vehicle owned by Joseph McDuffee of New York and William Murphy. The time was 2 minutes 17 seconds. The one-mile automobile race was won by C. J. Connolly's in the slow time of 5 minutes 20 seconds. The Regas machine came in second and Isadore L. Heckinger was third. The five-mile race, open to steam and gas autos, resulted as follows. J. J. Mandery, first. Regas quadricycle, second. F. H. Bettys, third, Remi Miller, fourth: C. J. Connolly, fifth. Time, 14 minutes 42 seconds. McDuffee, who started his automobile at scratch, wen the mile handicap for autos in 2 minutes 17 seconds, and J. Fester Warner, who had a handicap of a sixteenth of a mile, was second. Sterms's steam pacer went an exhibition mile in 1 minute 27 2-3 seconds, and George Loysen finished a mile on a bicycle paced by the steam pacer in 2 minutes 8 1-5 seconds.

turned out to see the races, which were held under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania. The meet was practically between Princeton and Yale, as Pennsylvania and Swarthmore both failed to come up to expectations in the sprints.

The Tigers won through Bert Ripley's fine riding. He carried the Tigers' colors through a big field of Yale riders. A bad spill marred the sport in the five-mile race, Serick of Princeton, Ramsey of Swarthmore and Hopkins of Pennsylvania becoming tangled up ten yards from the finish. Hopkins was shaken up considerably and forced to retire. Summaries:

At the Vailsburg bicycle track just out of Newark yesterday, it was found necessary to stop the sale of tickets at the gate after all the stands and the infield were filled to a capacity where more spectators would have bothered the sight of those in the grand stand.
The crowd got their money's worth. The special feature of the day, the one-mile match race between Jay Eaton and Orlando Stevens, proved a specialty well worth travelling miles to see. Each of the first two heats was won by half a length and the third heat which the judges gave to Stevens, was so much like a dead heat that a large part of the crowd refused to honor the decision. Each heat was paced by a single rider to the last lap and then the pair fought it out. In the first heat Eaton got next to the pace. In the last lap Stevens lumped and opened up a gap of two lengths but Eaton fought it out and steadily closed the gap in a plucky fashion that kept the grand stand occupants on their feet shouting. When they entered the straight Eaton had closed the gap and was abreast and then it was a duel to the top. Eaton won by a half a length that he gained half an inch at a time. In the second heat Stevens took first place behind the pace.
Eaton made one bluff to jump ahead, but Stevens did not bluff when he got ready and although Eaton tacked on quickly he had not enough in him to get past before the tape slid under the wheels. In the last heat Eaton started the aprint and the pair came bowling up the straight to the finish side by side in a style that was too exciting for shouting. A dead heat would have been the most popular decision by the judges.

A feature of the day was the first appearance this year of Earl Kiser and his victory in the half-mile open, although Kiser, Cooper and Fisher at the finish were so nearly abreast that many questioned the decision. The races were the first of the season whic

The winner of the second time prize was W. N. Munroe of West Haven, Conn., and of the third Van Velsor.

The race was exceptionally free from serious mishaps, although the usual score or so of riders had falls. One of those most badly cut in a spill was John J. Marshall of New York. Of 138 entries there were 118 men who faced the starter, two of them negroes. There was an annoying delay before the start. At 3:25 P. M. the limit men, who had seven minutes over the scratch riders, were pushed off and all of the 118 got away without a spill. The road was in miserable condition, stony, rough and covered with a coating of dust almost an inch in depth.

not tell all of his work. In the one-mile handicap he rode the last lap alone and unpaced, closing a gap of about fifty yards before getting to the front. Huitherg, the Swedish champion, proved himself to be a speedy boy, but failed to get in the money. In the one-hour race he punctured a tire at seventeen miles and had to quit. Although the individual entries for the events at Berkeley numbered more than 100, and exceeded the list of any other track in this district, the public showed the same districtination to make the troublesome journey and there were only about 1,500 persons present. Collett of the Nassau Wheelmen and formerly of New Haven, who has been looked to as the successor of Frank Kramer in the amateur ranks. It was a Collett day at the Oval and the magnificence of this amateur's work not only justified the hopes of his friends and the predictions of the sharps that he would step into Kramer's shoes, but ran far ahead of them all. Collett won the half-mile open and Collett wen the half-mile open and Collett wen the one-mile handicap, starting from scratch. In doing the latter trick, he made a new amateur record of 2 minutes and 2-5 of a second for a handicap event. Collett won the one-hour race and in the course of it he won all the intermediate prizes offered for the rider who was first at five, ten, fifteen and twenty miles, also he won second prize for being leader in the greatest number of laps.
